A New Agency Discovered!—The Electric Telegraph Outlined—Something that will Overturn all the Railroads and Explode the Present System of Steamships!

[From the New York Sun of Nov. 2nd.]

We hasten to lay before a breakfast and eager public the full details of a new and wonderful discovery, which, in its sublime possibilities, TRANSCENDS THE LIMITS OF HUMAN INTELLECT! The momentous invention or discovery was accidentally made while the inventor, MR. THOMAS E. EDISON, was experimenting with a common Morse key in one of our large telegraph offices, in order to ascertain what its slender made it stick to. In the course of his investigations it became necessary to attach a gum band to the rear screw of the key. This operation, common enough in itself, unexpectedly led to the

UNEXPECTED RESULT

Absolutely releasing the band, it instantaneously quitted the key, rebounded and struck the associated director with tremendous force.

SCARE IN THE FACTORY

He at once commenced an inquiry into this strange result. Finding one end of the gum band in his message book, he inserted the end of a pen-holder in the other. Then, quickly releasing it, the pen-holder was thrown with violence

ACROSS THE OFFICE

a distance of some twenty feet. He then left the office very suddenly, and has since been engaged in the development of this new power, which he names

ETHERAL-IMPULSIVE FORCE.

The morning we deposited a reporter to Hoboken, where the inventor resides, for the purpose of getting a full description of the workings of this new and surprising agency.

The distinguished inventor, Mr. Edison, was discovered last at work in his laboratory, which is at the very top end of the common building known in Hoboken, and he was dressed in a worn coat, a cap, and a pair of more or less and one shoe. This eccentricity is a consequence of his long confinement in the laboratory, which is a simple and somewhat dingy room, and some of which have an astonishing resemblance to old, broken, and discarded furniture and antiquated heavy articles. At one end of the apartment an assistant was engaged in a curious experiment with a black junk light and a broken tumbler.

The inventor was busily employed in stretching an immense rubber band, fastened by one end to a nail in the ceiling. He placed a small iron ball in the loop of the band, pulled it out to its extreme length, then suddenly released it. The ball was projected with digital velocity through the axis and out into the air, where it depicted a parabolic curve, finally passing through the plate-glass window of the shop opposite.

This is but a small range of what may be done with this powerful agency, Mr. Edison observed. There is not sufficient room in our paper to give a full account of the wonderful things the inventor claims may be done by means of this power. He, however, subjects in a few of the most astonishing. By the use of a gum band of sufficient size, he says he can lift a car filled with freight of people from New York to San Francisco, sitting across the continent, in less than twenty minutes! How many balls containing messages may be sent from in less than a tenth of the time it now requires. Arrows in the ball will be scattered like leaves by a force a thousand times greater than gunpowder.

The mind fails to grasp the greatness of this stupendous discovery. It will certainly revolutionize all existing systems of travel and communication. Rapid transit will then become a reality. A man of business will step into his aerial chair down town and be with his family in one time than it takes to tell it.

We have the respect due. Would anyone do justice to it, and no honor can be too great to pay to the distinguished inventor.

NEW DISCOVERY IN TELEGRAPHY.

According to the article from the N. Y. Tribune, the inventor of the new telegraph system has been named by Mr. Edison. The inventor is the distinguished inventor, Mr. Edison, who has been named by Mr. Edison. The inventor is the distinguished inventor, Mr. Edison, who has been named by Mr. Edison. The process of insulation being dispensed with, the laying of wires would become very simple. In most cases, it would only be necessary to provide a very narrow, deep-cutting plow, with a real inside, from which latter the wire should be paved out as the plow advanced, with men to follow behind properly to adjust the earth, and by means to mark the route. This process, of course, would be practical only where the ground admitted of the use of the plow, but this would be the case throughout the territory of the country. But we shall probably hear more of this matter, and if it assumes the importance indicated, we shall with interest watch the development of this new method of telegraphing, well assured that this great agency is yet to be introduced to become popularized as a mode of communication beyond anything that generally dreamed of.
